Roasted Flounder

with Rice Pilaf, Almonds, and Cilantro

Annatto is an orange-red spice made from the dried and ground seeds of the tropical, South American achiote tree. We love the seasoning for its slightly sweet, nutty, and peppery flavor, as well as its bright hue, which can be used as a natural food coloring. Here, it adds complexity (and pretty presentation) to a pilaf of jasmine rice, bell pepper, and onion—the perfect base for roasted flounder fillets.

Recipe tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking. Trust us—you'll be glad you did!

Nuts can burn quickly, so keep an eye on them and stir frequently as they toast.

The stems of cilantro and parsley are actually quite tender, so we've kept them for extra flavor and aroma. Chop as finely as possible for the best texture.

USDA recommends cooking fish to 145°F.

1. Sauté bell pepper and onion

Preheat oven to 450°F. Rinse all produce. Halve bell pepper lengthwise, discarding seeds and stem; cut lengthwise into ¼-inch strips, then halve crosswise. Peel onion and cut into small dice. Heat 1 tablespoon olive oil in a medium pot over medium-high heat. When oil is shimmering, add bell pepper and onion and sauté, stirring occasionally, until softened, 3–5 minutes.

2. Make rice pilaf

To pot with bell pepper and onion, stir in rice, annatto, butter, ¾ cup water, and ½ teaspoon salt. Increase heat to high and bring to a boil, then stir once, reduce heat to medium low, cover pot, and simmer until water is fully absorbed, 10–12 minutes. Remove pot from heat and let stand, still covered, for 10 minutes. Fluff rice pilaf with a fork, then cover again to keep warm until ready to serve.

3. Roast flounder

While rice cooks, line a baking sheet with foil and rub with 1 teaspoon olive oil. Pat flounder dry with paper towel, season all over with ½ teaspoon salt and black pepper as desired, and place on prepared sheet. Arrange in a single layer; roast until fish is opaque and cooked through, 7–8 minutes.

4. Toast almonds

While flounder roasts, place almonds in a small pan over medium-high heat. Toast, stirring constantly, until golden and fragrant, 3–5 minutes (see recipe tip). Transfer toasted almonds to cutting board and set aside to cool slightly, then roughly chop.

5. Make cilantro-almond topping

Finely chop cilantro and parsley leaves and stems (see recipe tip). Halve lemon; cut 1 half into wedges for serving. Mince garlic. In a small bowl, combine almonds, cilantro, parsley, garlic, juice of remaining lemon, 2½ tablespoons olive oil, ⅛ teaspoon salt, and black pepper as desired; stir to combine. Set aside until ready to serve.

6. Plate flounder and pilaf

Taste rice pilaf and add salt and black pepper as desired, then divide between serving plates. Top with roasted flounder and spoon over cilantro-almond topping. Serve with lemon wedges for squeezing over. Enjoy!
