Queso Fundido Chicken Burgers

with Roasted Corn Salad

Queso fundido is kind of like the Mexican version of fondue—but this "molten cheese" dip is typically seasoned with mild poblano chiles and chorizo sausage, and served with tortilla chips for scooping. Tonight, chicken burgers are infused with chorizo-inspired spices, then layered with the gooey mix of roasted poblano and Monterey Jack cheese for a handheld twist we can't get enough of.

  - ½ teaspoon dried Mexican oregano
  - ½ teaspoon sweet paprika
  - ⅛ teaspoon dried thyme
- 12 ounces ground chicken
- 2 hamburger buns
- 3 ounces shredded Monterey Jack cheese

You'll need

olive oil kosher salt
black pepper plastic wrap
2 baking sheets
12" large nonstick pan with lid

Recipe tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking. Trust us—you'll be glad you did!

When cutting spicy chiles (even mild poblano), avoid touching the inside, and remember to wash your knife, board, and hands afterward.

The chicken might have a slight odor as a natural reaction to its vacuum packing. USDA recommends cooking ground chicken to 160°F.

1. Prepare ingredients

Preheat oven to 475°F. Shuck corn, discarding husk and silk. Halve lime. Peel onion, halve, and thinly slice. Mince garlic. Rinse remaining produce. Roughly chop cilantro leaves and stems. Halve bell pepper and poblano lengthwise, discarding seeds and stems; cut into ¼-inch pieces, keeping separate (see recipe tip). In a large bowl, whisk together juice of ½ lime, 1 tablespoon olive oil, ¼ teaspoon salt, and black pepper.

2. Form burgers

In a medium bowl, combine spice mix, garlic, half of cilantro, ½ teaspoon salt, and black pepper. Add chicken. Using your hands, mix well, then form into 2 equal patties, about 1 inch thick. Using your thumb, create a dimple on top of each (to keep them from puffing up during cooking). Place burgers on a plate, cover with plastic wrap, and chill in refrigerator for at least 5 minutes (this will also help them hold their shape).

3. Roast vegetables

On 1 half of a baking sheet, rub whole corn ear with ½ teaspoon olive oil. On the other half, toss onion and poblano with 2 teaspoons olive oil, and arrange in a single layer. Roast until lightly charred, about 10 minutes. Meanwhile, slice buns open horizontally, if they arrived whole. Arrange buns cut-side down on a separate baking sheet and bake (with vegetables) until toasted and light golden, 2–3 minutes. Set aside.

4. Cook burgers

Heat 2 teaspoons olive oil in a large nonstick pan over medium heat. When oil is shimmering, add burgers and sear until browned on bottom, 5 minutes. Flip burgers, cover pan, and continue searing until cooked through and no longer pink, 4 minutes more. Remove pan from heat and set aside.

5. Finish burgers

Once roasted, transfer half of poblano and onion to a small bowl and stir in Monterey Jack to combine. Pile queso fundido mixture on top of burgers, dividing evenly. Cover pan again, return to medium heat, and cook until cheese has melted, 2–3 minutes. Meanwhile, slice off roasted corn kernels, discarding cob. (Try laying the cob flat on your cutting board, rather than standing it on its end, to safely cut 1 side at a time.)

6. Plate burgers

To large bowl with lime dressing, add corn, bell pepper, remaining cilantro, and remaining poblano and onion. Divide buns and queso fundido chicken burgers between serving plates, and serve with roasted corn salad on the side. Cut remaining lime into wedges for squeezing over. Dig in!
