Shakshuka

with Spinach, Feta, and Pita Chips

We love the hands-off concept of baking eggs—there's more time to brew coffee. That's why shakshuka is the perfect brunch solution. Here, the eggs are nestled in a smoky harissa-spiced tomato sauce loaded with spinach, then baked for set whites and runny yolks. It's a saucy one-skillet meal (not counting the sheet for toasting pita), made even better with feta and fresh herbs.

MEALS WORTH MAKING

Ingredients

- 4 ounces baby spinach
- 1 herb mix
  - ⅛ ounce cilantro
  - ⅛ ounce parsley
- 1 yellow onion
- 2 cloves garlic
- 7 ounces feta cheese
- 3 tablespoons pine nuts
- ½ teaspoon ground cumin
- 2 tablespoons harissa
- 1 can diced tomatoes
- 2 pita breads
- 6 eggs

You'll need

olive oil kosher salt
black pepper
12" large ovenproof pan
baking sheet

Recipe tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking. Trust us—you'll be glad you did!

To prevent egg shells in your brunch, we suggest cracking eggs into a separate bowl before adding to the shakshuka. If there's any broken shell, you can remove it beforehand. Try using 1 of the cracked shell halves to scoop out any stray pieces—the larger piece will cut through the white, becoming a magnet for the smaller shell fragments.

Lightly jiggle the pan to make sure your eggs are cooked. If the whites don't move, you're good to go.

1. Prepare ingredients

Preheat oven to 450°F. Rinse all produce. Pat spinach dry with paper towel. Roughly chop cilantro and parsley leaves and stems. Peel onion, halve, and thinly slice. Thinly slice garlic. Cut or break feta into ½-inch pieces. In a medium bowl, combine herbs and half of feta (reserve remaining feta for Step 3).

2. Toast pine nuts

Place pine nuts in a large ovenproof pan over medium-high heat. Toast, stirring frequently to prevent burning, until golden and fragrant, 2–4 minutes. Transfer toasted pine nuts to bowl with feta and herbs; toss to combine and set aside, reserving pan for next step.

3. Make tomato sauce

Return pan from pine nuts to medium-high heat with 1 tablespoon olive oil. When oil is shimmering, add cumin, onion, and garlic; sauté, stirring, until softening, 4–5 minutes. Add harissa (it's spicy—feel free to use less) and diced tomatoes and their juices; stir to combine. Remove pan from heat and stir in spinach, remaining feta, and ¼ teaspoon salt to combine and wilt spinach slightly.

4. Bake pita chips

While tomato sauce cooks, stack pitas and cut into 8 equal wedges, then place on a baking sheet and toss with 2 tablespoons olive oil and ½ teaspoon salt. Arrange in a single layer and bake until golden and crisp, 8–10 minutes.

5. Bake shakshuka

While pita chips bake, create 4 small, evenly spaced pockets in tomato sauce (this helps keep the egg whites in one place). Crack 1 egg into each pocket (see recipe tip), nestling into sauce—save remaining eggs for tomorrow's breakfast. Season with a pinch of salt and pepper. Transfer shakshuka to oven (with pita chips) and bake until egg whites are just set, 6–10 minutes (see recipe tip).

6. Plate shakshuka

While shakshuka bakes, to bowl with feta and herbs, add 2 tablespoons olive oil and pepper as desired; gently toss to coat. Divide shakshuka between serving plates and sprinkle herb-feta salad on top. Serve with pita chips and dig in!
