Seared Steak Quesadillas

with Poblano Salsa and Chimichurri

Our tried-and-true method for baked quesadillas yields crispy, melty results in half the time (it also eliminates the messy flip in the pan). Tonight's version includes seared steak, Cheddar and Monterey Jack cheeses, and a spicy chimichurri (a bright, herby Argentine condiment). We then top off each with more chimichurri and a warm poblano and tomato salsa.

MEALS WORTH MAKING

Ingredients

¼ ounce cilantro
1 pint grape tomatoes
1 clove garlic
2 poblano chiles
4 steaks
1 tablespoon red wine vinegar
1 packet Cholula hot sauce
6 ounces shredded Cheddar cheese
6 ounces shredded Monterey Jack cheese
8 flour tortillas

You'll need

olive oil kosher salt
black pepper
12" large pan
blender or food processor (optional)
2 baking sheets

Recipe tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking. Trust us—you'll be glad you did!

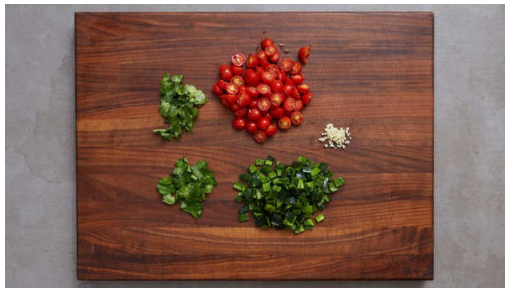

Cutting meat against the grain ensures tenderness. Find the direction of the grain (muscle fibers) and slice across it, rather than parallel.

Enlist a kitchen helper to assemble the tortillas. Adding the steak and vegetables between layers of cheese helps bind them to the tortillas so the quesadillas hold together.

USDA recommends cooking beef to 145°F.

1. Prepare ingredients

Preheat oven to 450°F. Rinse all produce. Pick cilantro leaves, discarding stems. Halve grape tomatoes. Mince garlic. Halve poblanos lengthwise; using a knife tip, discard seeds and stems, then cut into ¼-inch dice (be sure to wash your knife, cutting board, and hands afterward).

2. Sear steaks

Pat steaks dry with paper towel and season all over with 1 teaspoon salt and pepper. Heat 1 tablespoon olive oil in a large pan over medium-high heat. When oil is shimmering, add steaks and sear, working in batches and adding oil as needed, until browned and medium rare, 4–6 minutes per side. Transfer steaks to a plate and set aside to rest, about 5 minutes. Wipe pan clean and reserve, off heat, for Step 5.

3. Make chimichurri

While steaks sear, in a blender or food processor, combine red wine vinegar, Cholula (skip or use half for less heat), cilantro, garlic, ¼ cup olive oil, ½ teaspoon salt, and pepper as desired. Blend until smooth. Alternatively, finely chop cilantro and combine in a bowl with remaining chimichurri ingredients. Set aside. In a small bowl, combine Cheddar and Monterey Jack.

4. Assemble and bake quesadillas

Once rested, cut steaks against the grain into ¼-inch slices (see recipe tip). Rub 2 baking sheets with 2 teaspoons olive oil each. Add 2 tortillas to each sheet in a single layer. Layer with half of cheeses, then add steak and 1 tablespoon chimichurri. Top with remaining cheeses and remaining tortillas (see recipe tip). Brush tops of quesadillas with 1 teaspoon olive oil each. Bake until golden and crisp, 5–7 minutes.

5. Make poblano salsa

While quesadillas bake, return pan from steaks to medium-high heat with 1½ tablespoons olive oil. When oil is shimmering, add poblanos and sauté, stirring, until soft, about 5 minutes. Add grape tomatoes and season with ¾ teaspoon salt and pepper as desired. Cook, stirring, until vegetables are very soft, about 3 minutes more. Remove pan from heat.

6. Plate steak quesadillas

Using a thin spatula, carefully loosen steak quesadillas from baking sheets, transfer to cutting board, and cut into quarters. Transfer to serving plates and top with poblano salsa. Drizzle over a spoonful of chimichurri. Serve remaining chimichurri alongside for dipping. Enjoy!
