Barbecue-Glazed Chicken Thighs

with Cheesy Cornbread and Scallion Butter

Learn how easy it is to make homemade cornbread from scratch with tonight's recipe. For a special twist, slather the still-warm bread with a rich, tangy scallion compound butter. Add sticky, barbecue-roasted chicken thighs, and picture yourself at a summer cookout—no grill or smoker required.

MEALS WORTH MAKING

Ingredients

- 1 half stick unsalted butter
- 4 chicken thighs
- 8 ounces milk
- ½ cup cornmeal
- ½ cup flour
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 2 ounces shredded Monterey Jack cheese
- 1 scallion
- 3 tablespoons barbecue sauce
- 1 aluminum tin

You'll need

- olive oil
- 1 egg
- kosher salt
- black pepper
- aluminum foil
- 2 baking sheets

Recipe tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking.

The chicken might have a slight odor as a natural reaction to its vacuum packing.

For milder flavor in the butter, we're only using 1 teaspoon of the scallion whites and light greens. Save any remainder for another recipe.

To tell if your chicken thighs are cooked through, rely on temperature, not color. Unlike the white meat in chicken breasts, the dark meat in chicken thighs may be slightly pink in color, even when done. USDA recommends cooking chicken to 165°F.

1. Roast chicken thighs

Preheat oven to 450°F. Cut butter into 4 equal pieces; place 1 piece in a small bowl and set aside to soften at room temperature. Line a baking sheet with foil. Pat chicken thighs very dry with paper towel (this will help the skin crisp up in the oven) and place on prepared sheet (see recipe tip). Season all over with ½ teaspoon salt and pepper, then arrange skin-side up. Roast until skin is beginning to crisp, 15–20 minutes.

2. Make cornbread batter

While chicken roasts, place remaining butter in a medium heatproof bowl and microwave in 30-second intervals until completely melted. Alternatively, melt butter in a small pot over medium heat, then pour into a medium heatproof bowl. Add ½ cup milk (save remainder for your morning coffee) and 1 egg; whisk until fully combined. Add cornmeal, flour, sugar, baking powder, Monterey Jack, and ½ teaspoon salt; whisk to combine.

3. Bake cornbread

Reshape aluminum tin, if bent, then rub with 1 teaspoon olive oil to coat and place on a separate baking sheet. Pour cornbread batter into prepared tin, spreading in an even layer. Bake cornbread (with chicken) until crust is light golden and a toothpick or sharp knife inserted into the middle comes out clean, 16–18 minutes. Set aside to cool slightly, 5–10 minutes.

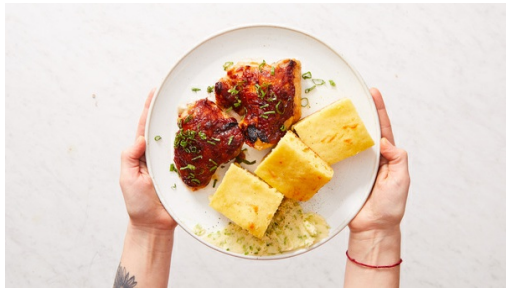

4. Make scallion butter

While cornbread bakes, rinse scallion, trim and discard root, and mince scallion whites and light greens; thinly slice dark greens, keeping separate. To bowl with softened butter, add 1 teaspoon scallion whites and light greens (see recipe tip), ⅛ teaspoon salt, and pepper as desired. Mash using a fork until fully combined; set aside for serving.

5. Glaze chicken thighs

Once chicken skin is beginning to crisp, spoon over barbecue sauce to coat. Continue roasting until chicken is cooked through and barbecue sauce is sticky, 10–15 minutes more (see recipe tip). Keep an eye on the chicken thighs as they roast—if the sauce begins to darken too quickly before your chicken is cooked through, cover loosely with foil to prevent burning, then continue roasting as instructed.

6. Plate chicken and cornbread

Use the downtime while the chicken roasts to set the table. Then, divide barbecue-glazed chicken thighs between serving plates and garnish with scallion dark greens. Cut cornbread into 2-inch squares, then carefully remove from tin. Serve cheesy cornbread and scallion butter with chicken. Enjoy!
