

White Bean Posole

with Poblano Pepper, Cheddar Cheese, and Tortilla Chips

Posole, or "hominy" in Spanish, is an ancient Mexican stew made with...drum roll...hominy, or dried corn that's been soaked in a mineral lime bath. Here, it's combined with poblano pepper, tomatoes, and white beans for a nourishing weeknight feast.

When slicing spicy peppers, avoid touching the inside, and immediately wash your knife, cutting board, and hands afterward. Feel free to add less or omit it if you don't love heat.

1. Prepare Ingredients

Preheat oven to 400°F. Peel onion and cut into small dice. Mince garlic. Rinse hominy and white beans. Rinse poblano pepper, halve lengthwise, and using a knife tip, discard seeds (see Recipe Tip). Cut into ¼-inch dice.

2. Sauté Vegetables

Heat 1 tablespoon olive oil in a medium pot over medium heat. When oil is shimmering, add poblano pepper, onion, and garlic and sauté until softening, about 5 minutes. Add tomato paste and cook, stirring, until bright red, about 1 minute. Stir in spice mix and cook until fragrant, 1-2 minutes.

3. Simmer Posole

Add diced tomatoes and their juices and vegetable broth to pot with vegetables. Increase heat to high and bring to a boil. Add hominy and white beans, reduce heat to medium, and simmer until hominy is tender, about 10 minutes. Remove pot from heat. Taste and add salt and pepper as needed.

4. Season Tortilla Chips

While posole simmers, cut each tortilla into 8 triangles and place on a baking sheet. Drizzle over ½ tablespoon olive oil, season with ⅛ teaspoon kosher salt, and toss to coat. Arrange in a single layer.

5. Bake Tortilla Chips

Transfer tortilla chips to oven and bake until just crisp, 8-10 minutes.

6. Plate Posole

Garnish posole with Cheddar. Scoop it up with tortilla chips and enjoy.
