Tuscan Chicken

with Sun-Dried Tomatoes and Crispy Potatoes

There are few better ways that we like to spoil our loved ones than with a comforting Italian red sauce. In this Tuscan-inspired Popular Recipe, diced and sun-dried tomatoes create a bright base for the creamy sauce. Pan-seared chicken is nestled into the sauce to finish in the oven right alongside roasting potatoes, so everything hits the table at the same time. Brings new clarity to "What time is dinner?"

Plated.

Ingredients

- 2 14½-ounce cans diced tomatoes
- 1¼ pounds Yukon Gold potatoes
- 4 ounces sun-dried tomatoes
- 4 boneless chicken breasts
- 4 cloves garlic
- 2 tablespoons tomato paste
- ½ cup white wine
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- 8 ounces heavy cream
- 5 ounces baby spinach

You'll need

olive oil kosher salt
black pepper
8" medium pot
12" large ovenproof pan
baking sheet

Recipe tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking.

Without any oil, it can be hard to see if a dry pan is hot enough for getting a good sear. Checking the heat with your hand is an easy way to tell if it's good to go. Sear the chicken in batches as needed.

The whole garlic cloves infuse the sauce with aromatic flavor during cooking, but won't be pleasant to bite into. We recommend discarding before serving.

The chicken might have a slight odor as a natural reaction to its vacuum packing. USDA recommends cooking chicken to 165°F.

1. Prepare ingredients

Make enough room in your oven for the large pan and baking sheet to fit at the same time, moving racks if needed, then preheat to 450°F. Drain diced tomatoes, discarding juices (this will keep your sauce from getting too watery). Rinse potatoes, cut into 1-inch cubes, and place in a medium pot. Thinly slice sun-dried tomatoes.

2. Boil potatoes

Cover potatoes with cold water by 1 inch and season generously with salt. Bring to a boil over high heat and cook until tender when pierced with a knife tip, about 12 minutes. Then, drain well and place on a paper towel–lined plate to dry as much as possible—excess moisture will create steam in the oven, preventing them from crisping. (Boiling the potatoes first ensures they'll cook through completely when roasted in Step 5.)

3. Sear chicken

While potatoes boil, pat chicken dry with paper towel and season all over with 1 teaspoon salt and pepper as desired. Heat a large ovenproof pan over medium heat. Carefully hover your hand a few inches away from the pan—when you can easily feel heat, add chicken skin-side down (see recipe tip). Sear, without flipping, until skin is golden brown and easily lifts from pan, 8–9 minutes. Transfer chicken to a plate, skin-side up.

4. Make tomato sauce

Return pan from chicken to medium heat with 1 teaspoon olive oil. When oil is shimmering, add whole garlic cloves, tomato paste, and sun-dried tomatoes, and cook until fragrant, about 1 minute. Add wine and simmer, scraping up any brown bits from pan, until reduced by half, about 1 minute. Stir in sugar and diced tomatoes, then remove pan from heat. Return chicken to pan skin-side up, nestling into sauce. Set aside until potatoes are ready to roast.

5. Roast potatoes and chicken

On a baking sheet, toss potatoes with 1½ tablespoons olive oil, ¾ teaspoon salt, and pepper as desired. Arrange in a single layer. Transfer baking sheet with potatoes and pan with chicken to oven. Roast together until chicken is cooked through and no longer pink and potatoes are brown and crispy, 10–12 minutes. (P.S. Great time to pour yourself a refreshing drink!) Divide crispy potatoes among serving plates.

6. Finish sauce and plate chicken

Transfer chicken to a plate, leaving sauce behind in pan. Remove and discard garlic (see recipe tip), then add ¼ cup heavy cream, saving remainder for tomorrow's coffee. Stir in spinach to wilt and season with ½ teaspoon salt and pepper as desired. Divide sauce among plates with potatoes, top with chicken, and dig in!
