White Bean Crostini

with Roasted Cauliflower and Arugula Salad

A popular Italian appetizer becomes an elegant meal with a few cheffy techniques. First, we're creating a compound butter with parsley and thyme and slathering it over baguette slices. They're toasted until golden, then spread with a creamy white bean mash. Paired with spiced cauliflower and arugula in a raspberry vinaigrette, this dish feels special whether it's passed around at a party or enjoyed at the table.

Recipe tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking.

If butter is not soft enough to mash by Step 3, transfer to a small heatproof bowl and microwave in 10-second intervals until softened, but not melted.

Not a fan of garlic? Feel free to skip rubbing the bread slices with whole garlic clove, using only the purée to top your crostini.

1. Prepare ingredients

Preheat oven to 450°F. Place butter in a medium bowl and set aside to soften at room temperature (see recipe tip). Drain and rinse beans. Rinse all produce. Pat arugula dry with paper towel. Cut cauliflower to ½-inch wide florets, if needed. Halve lemon. Roughly chop dill, parsley, and thyme leaves, keeping herbs separate and discarding stems. Peel shallot and mince. Mince 1 clove garlic, leaving remaining clove whole.

2. Roast cauliflower

On a baking sheet, toss cauliflower with spice mix, 1 tablespoon olive oil, ¼ teaspoon salt, and pepper as desired. Arrange in a single layer, spacing apart as much as possible (this will help your florets roast instead of steam). Roast until golden and tender, 12–15 minutes.

3. Make crostini

While cauliflower roasts, add parsley and half of thyme to bowl with butter and, using a fork, mash until fully combined. Cut baguette on a diagonal into ½-inch slices and arrange on a separate baking sheet in a single layer. Spread tops with herbed butter, dividing evenly. Reserve bowl for Step 4. Transfer baking sheet to oven. Toast alongside cauliflower until crostini are golden brown, 5–8 minutes. Set aside to cool.

4. Sauté aromatics and beans

Heat 1 tablespoon olive oil in a medium pan over medium heat. When oil is shimmering, add shallot, minced garlic, and remaining thyme. Cook until soft, about 3 minutes. Add beans and cook, stirring occasionally, until warmed through, 3 minutes more. Season with ¼ teaspoon salt and pepper as desired, then transfer to bowl from butter.

5. Make white bean purée

Using a fork, mash beans until smooth, then add juice of ½ lemon and 3 tablespoons warm water. Mix until smooth and fully combined, then taste and add salt and pepper as desired. Once bread is cool enough to handle, rub with whole garlic clove (see recipe tip) and spread with white bean puree. Transfer white bean crostini to serving plates.

6. Finish salad and plate crostini

In a large bowl, whisk together raspberry preserves, juice of remaining lemon, 1 tablespoon olive oil, ¼ teaspoon salt, and pepper. Add arugula and roasted cauliflower to bowl. Toss to coat. Transfer salad to plates with crostini and sprinkle Parmesan over salad. Garnish everything with dill. Dig in!
