Thai Chicken Salad

with Peanut-Ginger Dressing and Crispy Onion

Tonight's Thai chicken salad features a tangy, creamy, and aromatic dressing you'll want to make again and again. Sliced red onion is pickled in rice wine vinegar to soften its bite, then whisked with peanut butter, ginger, garlic, soy sauce, and sesame oil. It's tossed with plenty of colorful veggies, then topped with pan-roasted chicken and crispy fried onion.

6" small pot

Recipe tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking. Trust us—you'll be glad you did!

Ginger skin can be trimmed with a knife or peeler, but if you have a metal spoon handy, this is even easier: Scrape the edge of the spoon along the outside of the ginger to quickly peel its delicate skin.

The chicken might have a slight odor as a natural reaction to its vacuum packing. USDA recommends cooking chicken to 165°F.

1. Cook chicken

Pat chicken very dry with paper towel (this will help the skin crisp up in the pan); season all over with ½ teaspoon salt and black pepper. Heat ½ tablespoon sesame oil (reserve remainder) in a medium pan over medium-high heat. When oil is shimmering, add chicken skin-side down; sear until skin is golden and easily lifts from pan, 6 minutes. Flip and sear until cooked through and no longer pink, about 6 minutes more.

2. Prepare ingredients

Remove pan from heat; transfer chicken to a cutting board and set aside to rest. Meanwhile, rinse all produce. Pat arugula dry with paper towel. Thinly slice mini peppers crosswise, discarding seeds and stems. Peel onion and finely chop enough to yield 2 tablespoons; thinly slice remainder. In a large bowl, stir together rice wine vinegar, sliced onion, and ¼ teaspoon salt; set aside.

3. Make ginger-garlic paste

Trim and discard skin of ginger (see recipe tip). Mince garlic and ginger, then combine on cutting board and sprinkle over ⅛ teaspoon salt. Using a large knife, carefully scrape over mixture at a 45° angle, pressing down. Repeat until ginger and garlic are broken down and a paste forms. Transfer ginger-garlic paste to bowl with sliced onion and vinegar; set aside for Step 5.

4. Fry chopped onion

Heat 3 tablespoons canola oil in a small pot over medium-high heat. When oil is shimmering, add 1 piece chopped onion to pot. If it sizzles immediately, keep going; if not, try again once the oil is hotter. Fry all chopped onion pieces, stirring frequently to prevent burning, until lightly browned and crisp, 2–3 minutes. Remove pot from heat. Using a slotted spoon, transfer crispy onion to a paper towel–lined plate to drain; sprinkle over ⅛ teaspoon salt.

5. Finish peanut-ginger dressing

To bowl with sliced onion, add peanut butter, soy sauce, remaining sesame oil, and 2 tablespoons water; whisk until smooth. Taste dressing and add salt and black pepper as desired (you may not need to add any more seasoning depending on your preferences, so be sure to taste first). Add slaw mix, arugula, and mini peppers to bowl with dressing, waiting to toss until ready to serve.

6. Plate Thai chicken salad

Cut rested chicken into ¼-inch slices. Toss salad and divide between serving plates. Top with sliced chicken and garnish with crispy onion. Enjoy!
