Ziti Bolognese

with Basil and Parmesan Frico

All our best summery pastas are built around an easy-to-remember equation: start with a flavor-packed sauce, add something fancy, but keep it all feeling quick and effortless. Here, that's a meaty white wine Bolognese, tossed with al dente ziti and tomatoes that cook in the same pot with the pasta. The fancy? Salty, lacy wafers known in Italy as frico, made simply by baking a pile of Parmesan until golden and crisp.

- 1 clove garlic
- ¼ cup tomato paste
- 8 ounces ziti pasta
- ¼ pint grape tomatoes
- 12 ounces ground beef, pork, and veal
- ¼ cup white wine
- 1 ounce grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 parchment paper

You'll need

olive oil kosher salt
black pepper
8" medium pot with lid
10" medium high-sided pan
baking sheet

Recipe tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking. Trust us—you'll be glad you did!

While it cooks, pasta releases starches into the boiling water. Adding some reserved pasta water to the sauce in Step 6 will help it cling to the noodles. It's easiest to reserve this water in a liquid measuring cup, if you have one.

USDA recommends cooking ground beef, pork, and veal to 160°F.

1. Prepare ingredients

Preheat oven to 425°F. Bring a medium, covered pot of water to a boil over high heat (this helps the water boil faster). Rinse all produce. Roughly chop or tear basil leaves, discarding stems. Peel onion and cut into small dice. Mince garlic.

2. Sauté aromatics

Heat 1 teaspoon olive oil in a medium high-sided pan over medium-high heat. When oil is shimmering, add onion and sauté, stirring, until softened, 3–4 minutes. Add garlic and sauté until fragrant, 1 minute. Add tomato paste and 2 tablespoons water and cook, stirring, until fully combined, 2–3 minutes more. Remove pan from heat and season with ¼ teaspoon salt and pepper as desired. Set aside.

3. Cook ziti and tomatoes

Season boiling water generously with salt. Stir in ziti and cook for 3 minutes. Then, add whole grape tomatoes and continue cooking until ziti is al dente and tomatoes soften and begin to burst, 4–5 minutes more. Reserve ⅓ cup pasta cooking water (see recipe tip), then drain ziti and tomatoes.

4. Simmer Bolognese

While ziti cooks, pat ground beef, pork, and veal dry with paper towel. Return pan with aromatics to medium-high heat. When aromatics are sizzling, add meat, ½ teaspoon salt, and pepper as desired. Cook, breaking up, until browned, about 5 minutes (move on to Step 5—but don't forget to come back!). Add white wine and simmer until liquid is reduced by half, 1 minute more. Remove pan from heat and set aside.

5. Bake Parmesan frico

While meat cooks, line a baking sheet with parchment paper. Spread Parmesan in an even circle, about ⅛-inch thick. Bake until golden and crisp, 5–6 minutes. Set aside to cool slightly, then carefully remove frico from parchment and break into 1-inch pieces.

6. Finish and plate ziti Bolognese

Add ziti and tomatoes to pan with Bolognese. Then, adding 1 tablespoon at a time, stir in reserved pasta cooking water until sauce is silky and clings to noodles. Divide ziti Bolognese between serving bowls and garnish with basil and Parmesan frico. Mangia!
