Cheesy Sweet Onion Panini

with Truffle Fries

In Italian, panino means "small bread," referring to a sandwich or roll, while the plural is panini. In these uber-flavorful panini, sautéed leeks and sweet onion are sandwiched in between sourdough bread and gooey Fontina and Gruyère cheeses. Baked fries sprinkled with aromatic truffle zest make for a terrific classed-up side.

Ingredients

- 3 packets unsalted butter, divided
- 1 leek
- 2 russet potatoes
- 1 ounce baby arugula
- 1 sweet Vidalia onion
- 1 packet truffle zest, divided
- 4 slices sourdough bread
- 2 packets Dijon mustard
- 1 cheese blend, divided
  - 2 ounces shredded Fontina cheese
  - 3 ounces shredded Gruyère cheese
- ¼ ounce parsley

You'll Need

- 1½ tablespoons + 1 teaspoon olive oil
- 3 tablespoons water
- kosher salt
- black pepper
- 12" large pan
- baking sheet
- 10" medium heavy pan (optional)

Recipe Tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking. Trust us—you'll be glad you did!

Do not drain leeks, or the dirt at the bottom will pour over them. Instead, use a slotted spoon or your hands to remove them from the water, then pat dry before adding them to the pan to avoid splattering.

The heat is intensified under the panini when they're pressed down, resulting in evenly crisp bread and melty cheese.

1. Prepare Ingredients

Preheat oven to 450°F. Set butter aside at room temperature to soften. Rinse leek, halve lengthwise, then thinly slice crosswise. Place leek in a bowl of cold water, separating pieces with your fingers, to let dirt sink to bottom. Rinse potatoes, halve lengthwise, and flip cut-side down. Cut lengthwise into ¼-inch slices, then cut lengthwise again into ¼-inch fries. Rinse arugula and pat dry. Peel onion, halve, and thinly slice.

2. Sauté Aromatics

Remove leek from water and pat dry with a paper towel (see Recipe Tip). Heat 1 packet butter and 1 teaspoon olive oil in a large pan over medium heat. When butter is foamy, add leek and onion and cook until onion is soft and translucent, about 5 minutes. Add ¼ teaspoon salt and 3 tablespoons water and continue to cook until leeks are very soft, 3-5 minutes more. Remove pan from heat and set aside.

3. Bake Fries

While aromatics soften, on a baking sheet, toss potatoes with 1½ tablespoons olive oil, ½ teaspoon salt and pepper as desired. Arrange in a single layer and bake until crisp and tender, 20-25 minutes. Remove from oven and sprinkle over half of truffle zest. Toss to combine and set aside.

4. Assemble Panini

While fries bake, place bread slices on a clean, dry surface and spread remaining butter on 1 side of each bread slice. Flip slices and spread mustard on plain sides. Top mustard sides of 2 slices with half of cheese blend, all of sautéed aromatics, and arugula. Top with remaining cheese blend and finish with remaining bread slices, buttered-side up.

5. Cook Panini

Wipe pan from aromatics clean and return to medium heat. When pan is hot (carefully hover your hand above the pan, you should be able to feel the heat), add both panini. Place a medium heavy pan or large plate on top (see Recipe Tip). Cook until bread is golden brown and cheese is melted, 2-3 minutes per side.

6. Finish Fries and Plate Panini

While panini cook, rinse parsley and pat very dry with paper towel. Pick leaves, discarding stems, and roughly chop. Toss fries on baking sheet with chopped parsley, then taste and sprinkle over salt and additional truffle zest as desired. Cut panini on a diagonal and serve with truffle fries. Dig in!
