Chicken Chasseur

with Mushrooms, Thyme, and Potatoes

Chicken chasseur (pronounced "shass-SIR" in French) translates to "hunter's chicken," a nod to the stew-like dish's humble origins. Tonight's version sautés cremini mushrooms with tomato paste, onion, and potatoes. It's all braised on the stovetop with white wine, thyme, chicken stock, and chicken breasts until the meat is perfectly tender and the sauce is rich and thick. Bon appétit!

Recipe tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking. Trust us—you'll be glad you did!

Patting the chicken very dry before seasoning and searing helps the skin crisp up in the pan.

Wiping mushrooms clean instead of rinsing prevents them from absorbing water. They won't brown well if they're too wet.

We're mashing some of the potatoes to give the sauce more body, resulting in a thicker, heartier texture.

The chicken might have a slight odor as a natural reaction to its vacuum packing. USDA recommends cooking chicken to 165°F.

1. Sear chicken

Pat chicken very dry with paper towel (see recipe tip); season all over with 1 teaspoon salt and pepper. Heat 1 tablespoon olive oil in a large high-sided pan over medium-high heat. When oil is shimmering, add chicken skin-side down; sear until skin begins to brown, 5 minutes. Flip and sear about 1 minute more (it'll finish cooking in the sauce). Transfer chicken to a plate, skin-side up; set aside. Reserve fat in pan, off heat, for Step 3.

2. Prepare ingredients

While chicken sears, wipe mushrooms clean with a damp paper towel (see recipe tip), then quarter. Rinse remaining produce. Reserve half of whole thyme sprigs for Step 4; strip remaining thyme leaves, discarding stems, then mince. Cut potatoes into ½-inch pieces. Peel onion, halve, and thinly slice. Mince garlic.

3. Sauté vegetables

Return pan from chicken to medium-high heat with 1½ tablespoons olive oil. When oil is shimmering, add potatoes and onion; sauté, stirring frequently, until softened, 5–6 minutes. Add mushrooms and garlic; sauté, stirring, until mushrooms are tender and garlic is fragrant, 4–5 minutes. Add tomato paste and cook, stirring, to combine, 1 minute more.

4. Cook sauce

To pan with vegetables, still over medium-high heat, add white wine; cook, scraping up browned bits from bottom of pan, until liquid is mostly absorbed, 1–2 minutes. Stir in bouillon cube, reserved whole thyme sprigs, and 2½ cups water. Increase heat to high and bring to a boil, then reduce heat to medium high. Return chicken to pan skin-side up, nestling partway into sauce to preserve crispy skin.

5. Finish chicken chasseur

Simmer chicken chasseur, still over medium-high heat, until sauce is thickened and chicken is cooked through and no longer pink, 15–18 minutes. Use this time to set the table, or kick back with a glass of wine. Then, remove pan from heat. Remove and discard whole thyme sprigs from pan. Using a fork, carefully mash half of potatoes against side of pan (see recipe tip), then season with ¾ teaspoon salt and pepper as desired.

6. Plate chicken chasseur

Divide vegetables and sauce among serving bowls, then top with chicken. Garnish with remaining thyme. Enjoy!
