Our version of classic Argentine chimichurri pairs fresh cilantro and parsley with red wine vinegar, olive oil, and crushed red pepper for a little heat. We're tossing half of the herb sauce with tender bay scallops before searing—the rest gets drizzled over the final plates, perfect for scooping up with roasted carrots, kale, and tiny fregola pasta underneath.

Cooking Steps

Prepare ingredients
Preheat oven to 450°F. Rinse all produce.
Halve carrots lengthwise; cut crosswise on a diagonal into 1-inch pieces. Roughly chop cilantro and parsley, including stems. Halve lemon. Peel onion; cut into small dice. Tear kale leaves into bite-size pieces, discarding long stems; place in a medium bowl with juice of ½ lemon and 2 teaspoons olive oil. Using your hands, massage until beginning to soften, 1-2 minutes.

Roast carrots and sauté onion
Toss carrots on a baking sheet with 2 teaspoons olive oil, ¼ teaspoon salt, and black pepper as desired. Arrange in a single layer, spacing apart as much as possible, and roast until softened and lightly golden, 10-12 minutes. Meanwhile, heat 1 tablespoon olive oil in a medium pot over medium heat. When oil is shimmering, add onion and cook, stirring continuously, until softened, 3-5 minutes.

Cook fregola
Add fregola to pot with onion, still over medium heat, and cook, stirring frequently, until toasted, 2-3 minutes.
Add wine and simmer until liquid is mostly absorbed, 1-2 minutes more. Add 2 cups water. Bring to a boil over high heat, then reduce heat to medium high and simmer until liquid is mostly absorbed and fregola is tender, 13-17 minutes. Remove pot from heat. Season with ½ teaspoon salt and pepper as desired.

Make chimichurri
While fregola simmers, in a blender or food processor, combine whole garlic cloves, red wine vinegar, spice mix (or use half for milder flavor), cilantro, parsley, 1 squeeze lemon juice, 2 tablespoons olive oil, ¼ teaspoon salt, and black pepper as desired. Blend until smooth. Alternatively, mince herbs and garlic, place in a separate medium bowl, and stir in remaining sauce ingredients to combine. Set aside.

Sear scallops
Pat scallops dry with paper towel, place on a plate, and toss with half of chimichurri and ¼ teaspoon salt.
Heat 2 teaspoons olive oil in a medium nonstick pan over medium-high heat. When oil is shimmering, add scallops and sear, without stirring, 2 minutes (to keep them from sticking to the pan). Then, stir scallops and continue cooking until opaque and cooked through, 1 minute more. Remove pan from heat and set aside.

Plate chimichurri scallops
Add butter and softened kale to pot with fregola, still off heat, and stir to combine, then divide kale and fregola between serving plates. Top with roasted carrots. Using a slotted spoon, transfer scallops to plates on top of carrots. Drizzle over remaining chimichurri and enjoy!
