

Chicken Paillard

with Parmesan-Roasted Asparagus and Smashed Red Potatoes

Paillard is a French technique that refers to pounding meat thinly before cooking it. It has the double benefit of tenderizing and shortening the cook time. Here, chicken paillard is paired with gently smashed red potatoes and Parmesan-crusted asparagus for a simple, elegant, and deeply satisfying meal.

After pounding it, the chicken might not fit in your pan all at once. If so, sear the pieces in batches, adding more oil as needed in between.

The chicken might have a slight odor as a natural reaction to its vacuum packing.

USDA recommends cooking chicken to 165°F.

1. Prepare Ingredients

Preheat oven to 425°F. Rinse potatoes and quarter. Trim and discard woody ends of asparagus. Rinse chicken and pat dry with paper towel.

2. Make Smashed Potatoes

Place potatoes in a medium pot and cover with cold water. Add salt generously, bring to a boil over high heat, and cook until tender when pierced with a knife tip, about 12 minutes. Drain and return to pot, off heat. Add 2 tablespoons olive oil and using a large fork or potato masher, smash until mostly smooth. Taste and add salt and pepper as needed.

3. Roast Asparagus

While potatoes boil, on a baking sheet, toss asparagus with 1 tablespoon olive oil, ¼ teaspoon kosher salt, and pepper as desired. Arrange in a single layer and sprinkle Parmesan on top. Transfer to oven and roast until asparagus is tender and cheese is golden, 10-12 minutes.

4. Pound Chicken

While asparagus roasts, place chicken between 2 large pieces plastic wrap and using a meat mallet or heavy pan, pound to ¼-inch thickness. Season all over with ½ teaspoon kosher salt and pepper as desired.

5. Sear Chicken Paillard

Heat butter and 1 teaspoon olive oil in a large pan over medium heat. When butter is foamy, add chicken in a single layer and sear, working in batches if necessary, until cooked through and no longer pink, 3-4 minutes per side (see Recipe Tip). Remove from pan.

6. Plate Chicken Paillard

Serve chicken paillard with Parmesan-roasted asparagus and smashed red potatoes alongside. Woohoo! Keep flexing those cooking muscles.
