Roasted Salmon

with Bok Choy Rice and Jalapeño-Lime Glaze

Tonight's salmon roasts right alongside bok choy on one baking sheet, so they hit the table at the same time. While the oven does its thing, throw together a salty, sweet, and spicy glaze of soy sauce, honey, lime, and jalapeño (which you can adjust to hit your preferred heat level). Feel free to tweak the fresh lime that's squeezed into the glaze and steamy rice, too.

Recipe tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking. Trust us—you'll be glad you did!

When mincing spicy chiles, avoid touching the inside, and wash your knife, cutting board, and hands afterward.

To save time, try using a pair of kitchen scissors to cut soy sauce and honey packets open together.

To fit your taste preferences, adjust the jalapeño in the glaze and save any remainder for another recipe.

USDA recommends cooking fish to 145°F.

1. Cook rice

Preheat oven to 425°F. In a small pot, combine rice, 1½ cups water, and ½ teaspoon salt, and bring to a boil over high heat. Stir once, reduce heat to medium low, cover pot, and simmer until water is fully absorbed, 10–12 minutes. Remove pot from heat and let stand, still covered, for 10 minutes. Meanwhile, rinse all produce.

2. Prepare ingredients

Halve bok choy lengthwise and rinse thoroughly (it tends to hide a lot of dirt between its leaves); cut crosswise into 1-inch pieces, keeping bulbs and leaves separate. Halve limes. Trim and discard skin of ginger; mince. Trim and discard scallion roots; thinly slice, keeping whites and light greens separate from dark greens. Mince garlic. Halve jalapeños lengthwise; using a knife tip, discard seeds and stems, then mince (see recipe tip).

3. Season bok choy

Line a baking sheet with foil. On 1 half of prepared sheet, toss bok choy bulbs with half of garlic, 1½ tablespoons canola oil, ¾ teaspoon salt, and pepper as desired and arrange in a single layer.

4. Roast salmon and bok choy

Pat salmon dry with paper towel and place on other half of baking sheet, skin-side down. Season tops of fish with ¾ teaspoon salt and pepper as desired, then drizzle over 1½ tablespoons canola oil and rub in seasoning. Roast until bok choy bulbs are tender and salmon is cooked through and opaque, 12–14 minutes.

5. Make jalapeño-lime glaze

While salmon and bok choy roast, in a separate small pot, stir together soy sauce, honey (see recipe tip), ginger, scallion whites and light greens, juice of 1 lime, remaining garlic, and 2 teaspoons canola oil. Bring to a boil over high heat; reduce heat to medium and simmer, stirring occasionally, until glaze is thickened and sticky, 3–5 minutes. Remove pot from heat. Stir in up to ¾ of jalapeños (see recipe tip).

6. Plate roasted salmon

Fluff cooked rice with a fork and stir in bok choy leaves and juice of remaining lime to wilt leaves slightly. Divide bok choy rice among serving plates. Top with roasted bok choy bulbs, then roasted salmon. Spoon over jalapeño-lime glaze and garnish with scallion dark greens. Dig in!
