The signature dish of Veracruz, Mexico, is made with a tomato-based sauce, briny from the very Mediterranean addition of capers and olives. Chef Giuseppe's recreating the classic with salmon and our favorite buttery green olive, the Castelvetrano. It's traditionally served with rice or, as we've done here, with crispy potatoes to swipe up all the sauce.

Cooking Steps

1. Prepare potatoes
   Preheat oven to 425°F. Rinse all produce. Cut potatoes crosswise into ¼-inch rounds.

2. Roast potatoes
   Line a baking sheet with parchment paper, then add potatoes and toss with 1 tablespoon olive oil, ½ teaspoon salt, and pepper as desired. Arrange in a single layer and roast, flipping halfway through, until browned, 24-27 minutes total.

3. Prepare sauce ingredients
   While potatoes roast, trim and discard scallion root and thinly slice, keeping whites and light greens separate from dark greens. Roughly chop olives. Halve jalapeño lengthwise; using a knife tip, discard seeds and stem, then cut into ¼-inch dice.

4. Roast salmon
   Line a separate baking sheet with aluminum foil. Pat salmon dry with paper towel and add to prepared sheet, skin-side down. Season tops of fish with ½ teaspoon salt and pepper as desired, then drizzle over ½ tablespoon olive oil and rub in seasoning. Roast (with potatoes) until salmon is cooked through and opaque, 12-14 minutes.

5. Make Veracruz sauce
   While salmon roasts, heat 1 tablespoon olive oil in a medium pan over medium heat. When oil is shimmering, add whole grape tomatoes, jalapeño (skip or use half for less heat), and scallion whites and light greens. Cook, stirring, until beginning to char and soften, 3-4 minutes. Add sherry; cook until liquid is reduced by half, 1 minute more. Remove pan from heat. Stir in butter to melt. Gently press tomatoes to release their juices, then stir in olives.

6. Plate salmon Veracruz
   Season Veracruz sauce with ¼ teaspoon salt and pepper as desired. Divide roasted potatoes between serving plates, then top with roasted salmon. Spoon over Veracruz sauce and garnish with scallion dark greens. Dig in!
