Gochujang-Ginger Tilapia

with Red Peppers and Cilantro Rice

Gochujang is a spicy Korean condiment that blends red chiles, sticky rice, fermented soybeans, and salt. Its flavor is robust and deeply concentrated, so a little always goes a long way. Tonight, we're combining gochujang with pickled ginger, vinegar, and brown sugar to create a sweet-and-sour sauce that coats sautéed bell pepper and onion. They're served with roasted tilapia and herbaceous jasmine rice.

Your tilapia is finished cooking when it flakes easily with a fork or a thin knife inserted into the fish meets no resistance. USDA recommends cooking fish to 145°F.

Gochujang is a little spicy—you could use less but it's really what flavors the sauce here.

1. Cook rice

Preheat oven to 450°F. In a small pot, combine rice, ¾ cup water, and ¼ teaspoon salt, and bring to a boil over high heat. Stir once, reduce heat to medium low, cover pot, and simmer until water is fully absorbed, 10–12 minutes. Remove pot from heat and let stand, still covered, for 10 minutes. Fluff rice with a fork, then cover again to keep warm until ready to serve.

2. Prepare ingredients

Rinse all produce. Halve bell pepper lengthwise, discarding seeds and stem; thinly slice lengthwise into ¼-inch strips. Roughly chop pickled ginger. Trim and discard scallion roots and thinly slice, keeping whites and light greens separate from dark greens. Peel onion, halve, and thinly slice. Mince garlic (see recipe tip).

3. Roast tilapia

Line a baking sheet with foil. Pat tilapia dry with paper towel and place on prepared baking sheet. Season all over with ½ teaspoon salt and black pepper as desired. Roast tilapia until opaque and cooked through, 7–9 minutes (see recipe tip).

4. Sauté bell pepper and onion

While tilapia roasts, heat 1 tablespoon olive oil in a large pan over medium-high heat. When oil is shimmering, add bell pepper, scallion whites and light greens, onion, and garlic and cook, stirring occasionally, until softened, 5 minutes. Meanwhile, roughly chop cilantro leaves and stems. In a small bowl, whisk gochujang (see recipe tip), white wine vinegar, brown sugar, cornstarch, pickled ginger, and ½ cup water to combine.

5. Finish gochujang-ginger sauce

To pan with pepper and onion, still over medium-high heat, add gochujang-ginger mixture. Cook, stirring, until reduced and thickened, 1–2 minutes. Remove pan from heat and stir in scallion dark greens. Taste and season with salt and black pepper as desired.

6. Plate gochujang-ginger tilapia

Add half of cilantro to pot with rice, still off heat, and stir to combine. Divide cilantro rice between serving plates. Top with bell pepper and onion and roasted tilapia. Drizzle over any remaining gochujang-ginger sauce from pan. Garnish with remaining cilantro. Dig in!
