Sticky Apricot-Glazed Salmon

with Garlic Rice and Kale

For this Popular Recipe, we're channeling the flavors and textures of our favorite Japanese restaurant dishes: teriyaki salmon and miso cod, which both coat flaky fish in a satisfyingly sticky sauce. Here, salmon is glazed with sweet apricot and salty soy, then served with bok choy and kale. Frying the garlic and shallot creates crisp chips to stir into the rice and a garlic-shallot oil to infuse the sautéed vegetables.

Recipe tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking. Trust us—you'll be glad you did!

Your salmon is finished cooking when a thin knife inserted into the fish meets no resistance. USDA recommends cooking fish to 145°F.

If your glaze thickens quickly and gets too sticky in the pan, try stirring in a little warm water, 1 tablespoon at a time, to loosen it up. We recommend rinsing the pan right after serving to make cleanup easier—cooled glaze can be a tough scrub.

1. Prepare ingredients

Halve bok choy lengthwise and rinse thoroughly—it tends to hide a lot of dirt between its leaves. Cut crosswise into 1-inch pieces, keeping bulbs and leaves separate. Rinse kale, trim and discard long stems, then thinly slice crosswise. Rinse scallions, trim and discard roots, and thinly slice. Peel shallot and thinly slice into rings. Thinly slice garlic. Pat salmon dry with paper towel.

2. Cook rice

In a small pot, combine rice, 1¼ cups water, and ¼ teaspoon salt and bring to a boil over high heat. Stir once, reduce heat to medium low, cover pot, and simmer until water is fully absorbed, 10–12 minutes. Remove pot from heat and let stand, still covered, for 10 minutes. Fluff rice with a fork, then cover again to keep warm until ready to serve.

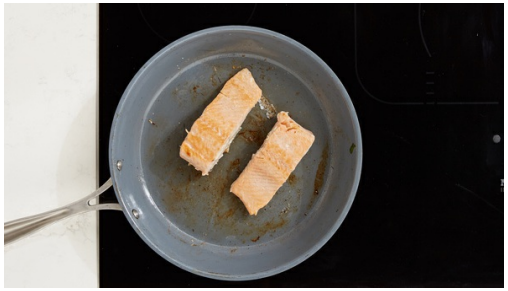

3. Fry garlic and shallot

While rice cooks, heat 3 tablespoons canola oil in a large nonstick pan over medium-high heat. When oil is shimmering, add 1 slice garlic. If it sizzles immediately, add shallot and remaining garlic; if not, try again once the oil is hotter. Fry, stirring constantly to prevent burning, until lightly brown and crisp, 1–2 minutes. Using a slotted spoon, transfer garlic and shallot to a paper towel–lined plate to drain. Reserve oil in pan.

4. Cook vegetables

Return pan with garlic-shallot oil to medium-high heat. When oil is shimmering, add bok choy bulbs and kale and cook, stirring, until softened, about 3 minutes. Stir in bok choy leaves and half of scallions and cook until softened, about 2 minutes more. Season with ¼ teaspoon salt. Transfer vegetables to serving plates and cover loosely with foil to keep warm. Reserve pan for next step.

5. Sear salmon

Season salmon all over with ¼ teaspoon salt and pepper. Heat pan from vegetables over medium heat with 2 teaspoons canola oil. When oil is shimmering, add salmon skin-side down and sear until skin is golden and crisp, 5 minutes. Flip salmon and cover, keeping lid slightly ajar for steam to escape. Continue searing until cooked through and opaque, 3–5 minutes more (see recipe tip). Remove pan from heat and transfer salmon to plates with vegetables.

6. Make apricot glaze and plate

Add butter, apricot preserves, and soy sauce to pan from salmon, still off heat, and stir to combine (see recipe tip). Uncover rice and stir in fried garlic and shallot, then divide between plates with vegetables and salmon. Spoon apricot glaze over salmon, garnish with sesame seeds and remaining scallions, and dig in!
