Szechuan-Style Pork

with Spicy Garlic Sauce and Blistered Green Beans

If you've tried Szechuan food before, you may have noticed the fiery, tingly sensation you get while eating it. That feeling is a result of the combination of Szechuan peppercorns with chile pepper or chile oil, and there's a name for it: má là. Tonight, we're combining the peppercorns with sambal oelek, a paste of ground chiles, brown sugar, and salt that adds a sweet and spicy kick to a garlic sauce for pork chops.

Plated.

Ingredients

- 1½ cups jasmine rice
- 4 boneless pork chops
- ¼ cup sesame oil, divided
- 1½ pounds green beans
- 3 scallions, divided
- ¼ ounce ginger
- 5 cloves garlic
- ½ cup gluten-free soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon sambal oelek
- 1 spice mix
  - 1 tablespoon dark brown sugar
  - ½ teaspoon ground Szechuan peppercorns
- ¼ cup rice wine vinegar
- 4 packets ketchup

You'll need

kosher salt
black pepper
8" medium pot with lid
12" large pan with lid

Recipe tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking.

Try lining up the green beans to trim them all together. Or, get an eager kitchen helper involved by having them snap off the ends of the green beans with their fingers.

Ginger skin can be trimmed with a knife or peeler, but if you have a metal spoon handy, this is even easier: Scrape the edge of the spoon along the outside of the ginger to quickly peel its delicate skin.

USDA recommends cooking pork to 145°F.

1. Cook rice

In a medium pot, combine rice, 2½ cups water, and ½ teaspoon salt, and bring to a boil over high heat. Stir once, reduce heat to medium low, cover pot, and simmer until water is fully absorbed, 10–12 minutes. Remove pot from heat and let stand, still covered, for 10 minutes. Fluff rice with a fork, then cover again to keep warm until ready to serve.

2. Cook pork

While rice cooks, pat pork chops dry with paper towel and season all over with ½ teaspoon salt and pepper as desired. Heat 1 tablespoon sesame oil in a large pan over medium-high heat. When oil is shimmering, add pork and sear, working in batches and adding oil as needed, until browned and cooked through, 3–5 minutes per side. Transfer to a plate and set aside to rest for about 5 minutes, reserving pan for Step 4.

3. Prepare ingredients

While pork cooks, rinse green beans, trim and discard ends (see recipe tip), then halve crosswise. Rinse scallions, trim and discard roots, and thinly slice, keeping whites and light greens separate from dark greens. Trim and discard skin of ginger (see recipe tip) and thinly slice. Mince garlic. In a small bowl, stir together soy sauce, sambal (it's spicy—feel free to use less for a milder flavor), spice mix, rice wine vinegar, and ketchup.

4. Sauté aromatics and green beans

Return pan from pork to medium-high heat with remaining sesame oil. When oil is shimmering, add green beans. Cook until blistered and slightly tender, 5–6 minutes. Add ginger, garlic, and scallion whites and light greens to pan. Cook, stirring occasionally, until slightly browned and fragrant, 2–3 minutes more.

5. Finish Szechuan-style pork

Reduce heat under pan with green beans to medium, then add soy sauce–sambal mixture. Cover pan and cook until green beans are tender, 2–3 minutes. Meanwhile, transfer pork to a cutting board; find the direction of the grain (muscle fibers) and slice across it, rather than parallel, as thinly as possible—this ensures tenderness. Once green beans are tender, add sliced pork to pan and turn to fully coat. Remove pan from heat.

6. Plate Szechuan-style pork

Divide rice among serving plates. Top with Szechuan-style pork and green beans, drizzle over spicy garlic sauce, and garnish with scallion dark greens. Enjoy!
