Harissa-Roasted Chicken Thighs

over Black Rice Pilaf

We love black rice for its mild, nutty flavor and, of course, its stunning deep-purple shade. In this repeat favorite, it's simmered in stock and white wine, then tossed with mint, parsley, and lemon. Chicken thighs pick up smokiness from a marinade of yogurt and harissa, a North African chile paste. During roasting, the flavorful juices drip down to infuse bell peppers below. A scattering of crushed almonds brings salty crunch.

Ingredients

- 1 lemon, divided
- 2 packets harissa
- 1 container nonfat Greek yogurt
- 4 chicken thighs
- 1 herb mix, divided
  - ⅛ ounce mint
  - ⅛ ounce parsley
- 1 red bell pepper
- 1 yellow bell pepper
- 2 tablespoons roasted salted almonds
- ½ cup black rice
- 1 container chicken stock
- ¼ cup white wine
- 1 teaspoon sweet paprika

You'll need

olive oil kosher salt
black pepper
6" small pot with lid
baking sheet

Recipe tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking.

Harissa is mostly smoky, but subtly spicy. It's what really flavors the chicken here, but feel free to use half for milder heat.

The bell peppers and chicken release moisture as they cook. Using a slotted spoon ensures this excess liquid doesn't end up in your dinner.

The chicken might have a slight odor as a natural reaction to its vacuum packing. USDA recommends cooking chicken to 165°F.

1. Marinate chicken

Preheat oven to 450°F. Halve lemon. In a large bowl, whisk together harissa (see recipe tip), ⅓ cup yogurt (snack on the rest!), juice of ½ lemon, 1 tablespoon water, and ½ teaspoon salt. Reserve 2 tablespoons harissa yogurt in a small bowl for serving. Pat chicken dry with paper towel. Season all over with ½ teaspoon salt and black pepper. Add to large bowl with yogurt; turn to coat. Set aside to marinate at room temperature until Step 4.

2. Prepare ingredients

While chicken marinates, rinse all produce. Roughly chop mint and parsley leaves, discarding stems. Halve red and yellow bell pepper lengthwise, discarding seeds and stems, then cut into ¼-inch pieces. Roughly chop almonds, or leave in bag and gently crush with the bottom of a heavy pan.

3. Cook black rice

Heat 1 teaspoon olive oil in a small pot over medium-high heat. When oil is shimmering, add black rice and cook, stirring frequently, until toasted and fragrant, 3–4 minutes. Add chicken stock, wine, and ¼ teaspoon salt. Bring to a boil over high heat, then stir once, reduce heat to medium low, and cover pot. Simmer until liquid is fully absorbed, about 25 minutes.

4. Season bell peppers

While rice cooks, on a baking sheet, toss bell peppers with paprika, 1 tablespoon olive oil, ½ teaspoon salt, and black pepper as desired. Remove chicken thighs from marinade and arrange on top of bell peppers, skin-side up. Discard marinade.

5. Roast chicken and peppers

Roast chicken and bell peppers until chicken is cooked through and no longer pink and skin is crisp, 25–35 minutes. Once black rice is cooked, fluff with a fork, then stir in juice of remaining lemon, half of chopped herbs, and 1 tablespoon olive oil. Taste and add salt and black pepper. Cover again to keep warm until ready to serve. Use any remaining downtime to get a head start on dishes.

6. Plate harissa-roasted chicken

Divide black rice pilaf between serving plates. Using a slotted spoon, plate bell peppers on top of rice (see recipe tip). Top with harissa-roasted chicken thighs and drizzle over reserved harissa yogurt. Garnish with almonds and remaining chopped herbs. Enjoy!
