Gochujang Baked Eggs

with Bok Choy and Crispy Rice

We're still obsessed with eggs baked in tomato sauce (known as shakshuka). Tonight, this Middle Eastern classic gets a totally new Korean twist. The tomato sauce is simmered with gochujang for chile heat, and soy and miso for savory umami. We fold in tender bok choy, then nestle in the eggs and bake. Instead of bread for dipping, we spoon everything over rice and finish with scallions and sesame seeds.

MEALS WORTH MAKING

Ingredients

- ½ cup jasmine rice
- 8 ounces baby bok choy
- 2 scallions
- 1 clove garlic
- 1 can crushed tomatoes
- 1 tablespoon gochujang
- 1 tablespoon miso paste
- 2 packets gluten-free soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon sesame seeds

You'll need

- canola oil
- 2 eggs
- kosher salt
- black pepper
- 6" small pot with lid
- 10" medium ovenproof pan
- 10" medium nonstick pan

Recipe tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking. Trust us—you'll be glad you did!

Gochujang is a spicy, savory paste made with red chiles and soybeans. Feel free to use less, but it's what really flavors the sauce.

Making a pocket for each egg in the sauce helps keep the whites in one place. To prevent egg shells in your dinner, you can also crack the eggs into individual bowls before adding to the pan. If there's any broken shell, you can scoop it out beforehand.

1. Cook rice

Preheat oven to 450°F. In a small pot, combine rice, ¾ cup water, and ¼ teaspoon salt, and bring to a boil over high heat. Stir once, reduce heat to medium low, cover pot, and simmer until water is fully absorbed, 10–12 minutes. Remove pot from heat and let stand, still covered, for 10 minutes. Fluff rice with a fork, then set aside uncovered to release steam, making it easier to crisp in Step 5.

2. Prepare ingredients

While rice cooks, halve bok choy lengthwise and rinse thoroughly (it tends to hide a lot of dirt between its leaves); cut crosswise into 1-inch pieces, keeping bulbs and leaves separate. Rinse scallions, trim and discard roots, and thinly slice, keeping whites and light greens separate from dark greens. Mince garlic. Heat 1 tablespoon canola oil in a medium ovenproof pan over medium-high heat.

3. Make gochujang sauce

When oil in pan is shimmering, add bok choy bulbs and scallion whites and light greens; cook, stirring, until softened, 4–5 minutes. Add crushed tomatoes, gochujang (see recipe tip), miso, soy sauce, garlic, and ¼ teaspoon salt; stir to combine. Bring to a boil over high heat, then reduce to medium high and simmer until sauce is thickened and flavors have melded, 5–7 minutes more.

4. Bake eggs

Once sauce has thickened, stir in bok choy leaves to wilt slightly. Remove pan from heat and create 2 small, evenly spaced pockets in sauce. Crack 1 egg into each pocket, nestling into sauce (see recipe tip). Season with a pinch of salt and pepper as desired. Transfer to oven and bake until egg whites are just set, 6–8 minutes.

5. Crisp rice

While eggs bake, heat 1 tablespoon canola oil in a medium nonstick pan over medium-high heat. When oil is shimmering, add rice and press down in a single layer. Cook, without moving, until golden on bottom, 3–4 minutes. Divide crispy rice between shallow serving bowls.

6. Plate gochujang baked eggs

Spoon gochujang baked eggs and sauce over crispy rice in bowls. Garnish with sesame seeds and scallion dark greens. Dig in!
