Southwestern Pork Chop

with Nectarine-Tomato Salsa, Avocado, and Tortilla Chips

Think of this dish as tacos, deconstructed. The warm salsa is the star—we've added peak-season nectarine to the typical tomato, onion, and cilantro. With a quick sauté, the fruit turns tender, releasing flavorful juices that mix with the sherry vinegar and olive oil to create a tangy-sweet dressing. It's a refreshing contrast to the spice-rubbed pork chops, golden tortilla chips, and creamy avocado.

Recipe tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking. Trust us—you'll be glad you did!

The stems of cilantro are actually quite tender, so we've kept them for extra flavor and aroma in the salsa.

This spice mix is a blend of Southwestern pantry staples like cumin, coriander, garlic, paprika, and chile.

If you prefer smaller pieces, you can also break the chips over your plate for a crunchy garnish.

USDA recommends cooking pork to 145°F.

1. Prepare ingredients

Preheat oven to 450°F. Rinse all produce. Halve tomatoes. Slice off rounded sides of nectarines, discarding pits; roughly chop. Roughly chop cilantro leaves and stems (see recipe tip). Peel onion and cut into small dice. Thinly slice garlic. Stack tortillas and cut into 8 equal wedges.

2. Make nectarine-tomato salsa

Heat 1 tablespoon olive oil in a large pan over medium-high heat. When oil is shimmering, add tomatoes, nectarines, onion, and garlic and sauté, stirring, until softened, 5 minutes. Transfer to a medium bowl; wipe pan clean and reserve for the next step. Season nectarine-tomato salsa with ¾ teaspoon salt and pepper as desired, then add sherry vinegar and 1½ tablespoons olive oil and toss to coat. Set aside.

3. Sear pork chops

Pat pork chops dry with paper towel and season all over with Southwestern spice mix, 1 teaspoon salt, and pepper as desired (see recipe tip). Return pan from salsa to medium-high heat with 1 tablespoon olive oil. When oil is shimmering, add pork and sear until browned and cooked through, 3–5 minutes per side. Transfer pork to cutting board; set aside to rest for about 5 minutes.

4. Bake tortilla chips

While pork chops sear, on a baking sheet, toss tortilla wedges with 1 tablespoon olive oil and ¼ teaspoon salt. Arrange in a single layer and bake until golden and crisp, 6–8 minutes. Meanwhile, halve avocados and discard pits; carefully scoop out flesh, discarding skins, then thinly slice.

5. Finish salsa and plate pork

Cut rested pork chops into ¼-inch slices. To bowl with nectarine-tomato salsa, add half of cilantro and toss to combine; divide among serving plates. Top with Southwestern pork chop and avocados. Garnish with remaining cilantro and serve with tortilla chips for scooping (see recipe tip). Dig in!
