Soy-Glazed Beef

with Cucumber and Sticky Rice

Something magical happens when cooked sticky rice is kneaded with a spoon: The grains release their starches and stick together (this is a fun task for a cooking companion). We serve it with saucy beef and crunchy marinated cucumbers. Sambal oelek, an Indonesian chili paste, adds a bright, spicy kick to the beef, but you can use less according to everyone's preferences.

Recipe tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking. Trust us—you'll be glad you did!

Cutting the cucumber into large pieces will help it keep its crunch as it marinates.

Keep kneading your rice, repeatedly folding it over itself, until the grains become sticky. This helps the rice balls hold their shape.

USDA recommends cooking ground beef to 145°F.

1. Cook sticky rice

In a small pot, combine rice, 1¼ cups water, and ¼ teaspoon salt and bring to a boil over high heat. Stir once, reduce heat to low, then cover pot and cook until water is fully absorbed, 12 minutes. Remove pot from heat and let stand, still covered, for 5 minutes. Fluff rice with a fork, then cover again to keep warm until Step 5.

2. Prepare ingredients

While rice cooks, rinse all produce. Halve cucumber lengthwise, then cut crosswise into 1-inch half-moons (see recipe tip). Trim and discard scallion roots and thinly slice, keeping whites and light greens separate from dark greens. Cut lime into wedges for serving.

3. Cook beef

Heat ½ tablespoon olive oil in a medium pan over medium-high heat. When oil is shimmering, add scallion whites and light greens and cook, stirring, until softened, 2–3 minutes. Pat beef dry with paper towel and add to pan. Season with ¼ teaspoon salt and pepper as desired. Cook, breaking up, until browned, about 5 minutes. Add soy sauce to pan and cook, stirring, until beef is fully coated, 1–2 minutes more.

4. Finish soy-glazed beef

While beef cooks, in a large bowl, stir together sugar, sambal oelek (it's spicy, so feel free to use less, or separate into batches and leave the sambal out of 1 batch), and rice wine vinegar to combine. Add cucumber to bowl and toss to coat. Once cooked, add beef to bowl with cucumber and stir to combine. Set soy-glazed beef aside to marinate until ready to serve.

5. Knead sticky rice

Once cooked, transfer rice to a clean, dry surface. Using a spoon, spread into an even layer and sprinkle over sesame seeds. Flatten and knead rice, folding it over itself repeatedly, until grains become sticky (see recipe tip)—this is a great task for a kitchen helper. Divide and roll into 2 equal balls, then transfer to serving bowls.

6. Plate soy-glazed beef

Spoon soy-glazed beef over sticky rice in serving bowls. Pick cilantro and mint leaves, discarding stems, then roughly tear and sprinkle over bowls. Garnish with scallion dark greens. Serve with lime wedges for squeezing over. Dig in!
