Soy-Glazed Chicken

with Long Life Noodles, Sriracha Cashews, and Pea Shoots

In tonight's Popular Recipe, a glaze of soy sauce, sesame oil, and Chinese hoisin (a thick soybean-chile sauce prized for its sweet-salty flavor) is spiked with scallions and tangy pickled ginger, then tossed with chewy long life noodles and tender chicken. Crunchy cashews, roasted in a Sriracha spice blend, add delightful heat and texture for a simple yet out-of-the-ordinary garnish.

Another great task for a dinner companion: separating the noodles. Don't worry if some noodles are gummy and stubbornly stuck together; they'll still taste great.

The chicken might have a slight odor as a natural reaction to its vacuum packing. USDA recommends cooking chicken to 165°F.

1. Cook chicken

Preheat oven to 325°F. Bring a medium pot of water to boil over high heat. Pat chicken dry with paper towel and season all over with ½ teaspoon salt and pepper as desired. Heat 2 teaspoons olive oil in a medium pan over medium-high heat. When oil is shimmering, add chicken and sear until cooked through and no longer pink, about 6 minutes per side. Transfer chicken to a cutting board. Reserve pan, off heat, for Step 6.

2. Prepare ingredients

While chicken cooks, rinse all produce. Pick cilantro leaves, discarding stems (enlist a helping hand for this part!). Trim and discard scallion roots and thinly slice, keeping whites and light greens separate from dark greens. Mince pickled ginger.

3. Toast Sriracha cashews

On a baking sheet, toss cashews with Sriracha powder (use half for milder flavor), 1 teaspoon olive oil, and ¼ teaspoon salt. Toast until golden and fragrant, 8–12 minutes. Oven strengths vary, and nuts can burn quickly, so keep an eye on these as they roast.

4. Cook long life noodles

Season boiling water generously with salt. Over a clean, dry surface, use your hands to gently separate long life noodles (see recipe tip). Add noodles to boiling water and cook, stirring occasionally to prevent sticking, until al dente, 2–3 minutes. Reserve ¼ cup noodle cooking water, then drain and rinse under cold water for 30 seconds to stop cooking.

5. Make sauce

In a medium bowl, whisk together soy sauce, hoisin, sesame oil, rice wine vinegar, scallion whites and light greens, pickled ginger, and reserved noodle cooking water to combine.

6. Plate soy-glazed chicken

Cut chicken into bite-size pieces, then return to pan over medium-high heat. Add sauce and long life noodles and toss to fully coat. Taste and add salt and pepper as desired, then divide between serving bowls. Garnish with pea shoots, cilantro, scallion dark greens, and Sriracha cashews. Dig in!
