Plum and Nectarine Dutch Baby

with Whipped Cream and Almonds

The compote in the center of this Dutch baby gives the classic brunch recipe a summery spin. We cook down seasonal plums and nectarines with sugar and water until the fruit is tender and jammy, then spoon over the eggy, shareable pancake. Dollops of lemon-infused whipped cream and a sprinkle of toasted almonds round out each decadent plate.

MEALS WORTH MAKING

Ingredients

- 4 ounces heavy cream
- 2 nectarines
- 2 plums
- 1 lemon
- 1 half stick unsalted butter
- 6 eggs
- 8 ounces milk
- ½ cup flour
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 2 tablespoons granulated sugar
- 2 tablespoons sliced almonds
- 2 tablespoons powdered sugar

You'll need

kosher salt
10" medium ovenproof pan
blender or food processor (optional)
12" large nonstick pan

Recipe tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking. Trust us—you'll be glad you did!

No microwave? Melt the butter in a small pot over medium heat.

If you don't have a blender or food processor, vigorously whisk the ingredients together in a large bowl, following the same order listed in Step 2 to ensure that the batter stays smooth. Save remaining eggs for another recipe.

Use remaining lemon to brighten a glass of water.

Try placing powdered sugar in a fine-mesh sieve, then gently shaking it over the Dutch baby for the perfect light dusting.

1. Prepare ingredients

Place a medium ovenproof pan in oven, then preheat to 450°F (a hot pan will help the Dutch baby crisp and rise). Place a large bowl, whisk, and heavy cream in the refrigerator for Step 5 (chilled tools make whipping cream easier). Rinse all produce. Slice off rounded sides of nectarines and plums, discarding pits, and thinly slice. If you have a zester and want to infuse your whipped cream with even more flavor, zest up to ½ of lemon, then halve.

2. Make Dutch baby batter

Unwrap butter, place in a small heatproof bowl, and microwave in 30-second intervals until completely melted (see recipe tip). Crack 3 eggs into a blender or food processor (see recipe tip); blend on medium speed until foamy, about 30 seconds. With motor still running, pour in milk and half of melted butter to combine. Add flour, cornstarch, half of granulated sugar, and ¼ teaspoon salt; blend until just combined.

3. Bake Dutch baby

Carefully remove pan from oven and add remaining melted butter, tilting pan to coat. When butter is foamy, pour in batter. Return pan to oven and bake until puffed and golden brown around edges, 20–25 minutes.

4. Toast almonds and cook fruit

While Dutch baby bakes, place almonds in a large nonstick pan over medium heat. Toast, stirring frequently, until golden and fragrant, 3 minutes. Transfer to a small bowl; set aside for serving. Place pan from almonds over medium-high heat with nectarines, plums, remaining granulated sugar, and ¼ cup water; cook, stirring, until liquid is slightly reduced, fruit is tender, and sugar is dissolved, 5–6 minutes. Remove pan from heat; stir in juice of ½ lemon (see recipe tip).

5. Make whipped cream

While fruit cooks, remove bowl and whisk from refrigerator. Add heavy cream and half of powdered sugar; whip until thickened and soft peaks form. Stir in lemon zest (if using). Chill in refrigerator until ready to serve.

6. Plate Dutch baby

Once baked, leave Dutch baby in pan and, working quickly so it doesn't deflate, spoon nectarines and plums into center. Dollop over whipped cream, garnish with toasted almonds, and dust with remaining powdered sugar (see recipe tip). Cut Dutch baby into slices and divide between serving plates, or bring straight to the table and serve family-style. Dig in!
