You're supposed to eat Chinese on New Year's Eve for good luck in the next year, right? We're here to help—all you need is one pot, one pan, and one hand to list off the components of Chinese 5-spice: cinnamon, star anise and fennel (to bring subtle licorice flavor), Szechuan peppercorns for a little heat, and cloves. Paired with hoisin sauce and ground duck, it all mimics the flavors of an elaborate, multi-course Peking duck feast, in rice bowl form.

Cooking Steps

Pickle slaw
Place slaw mix in a medium bowl. Toss with rice wine vinegar, ¼ teaspoon salt, and pepper as desired (a friend can help with this part), then set aside to pickle until ready to serve.

Cook rice
In a small pot, combine rice, 1¼ cups water, and ¼ teaspoon salt and bring to a boil over high heat. Stir once, reduce heat to medium low, cover pot, and simmer until water is fully absorbed, 10-12 minutes. Remove pot from heat and let stand, still covered, for 10 minutes.

Prepare ingredients
While rice cooks, rinse all produce. Pat spinach dry with paper towel and roughly chop. Trim and discard scallionroots and thinly slice crosswise on a diagonal, keeping whites and light greens separate from dark greens. Mince garlic. Pat duck dry with a paper towel.

Brown duck
Heat 2 teaspoons canola oil in a medium pan over medium-high heat. When oil is shimmering, add garlicand scallion whites and light greens and sauté, stirring, until fragrant, 1 minute. Add duck and Chinese 5-spice powder and cook, breaking up meat, until beginning to brown, about 4 minutes.

Finish duck and rice
Add soy sauce and hoisin sauce to pan with duck. Increase heat to high and bring to a boil, then reduce heat to medium high and simmer until sauce is reduced by half, 2-3 minutes more. Remove pan from heat. Fluff cooked rice with a fork, then stir in spinach and half ofsesame seeds to combine.

Plate rice bowls
Divide spinach rice between serving bowls. Top with Peking duck, spooning over any extra sauce from pan. Drain crunchy slaw, discarding pickling liquid, and add to bowls. Garnish with scallion dark greens and remaining sesame seeds (or ask your friend to do the honors). Enjoy!
