Chicken Satay

with Peanut Sauce and Ginger Rice

Indonesian satay is a popular street food featuring strips of meat, fish, or poultry cooked on wooden skewers. In this hearty dinner, we're taking the classic approach and serving our curried chicken skewers with a creamy peanut dipping sauce. For unexpected zing, a whole knob of ginger is dropped into the pot of rice as it cooks—a fragrant touch that complements the wedge of lime squeezed over at the end.

Recipe Tips

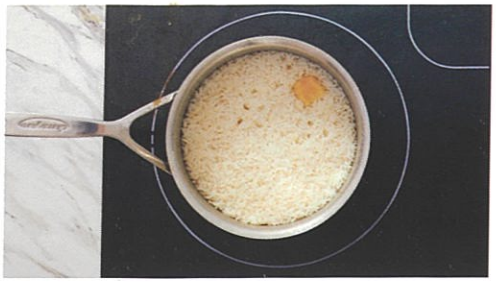

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking.

Our method for this recipe saves time by cooking the chicken and Chinese broccoli simultaneously in separate pans. To save on cleanup, cook broccoli first, stir in cooked rice, and transfer to plates. Wipe pan clean to cook chicken.

The chicken might have a slight odor as a natural reaction to its vacuum packing. USDA recommends cooking chicken to 165°F.

1. Cook Ginger Rice

Trim and discard skin of ginger, then place whole knob in a small pot. Add rice, 2½ cups water, and ½ teaspoon salt, and bring to a boil over high heat. Stir once, then reduce heat to medium low, cover pot, and simmer until water is fully evaporated, 10-12 minutes. Remove pot from heat and let stand, still covered, for 10 minutes. Fluff rice with a fork, then cover again to keep warm until Step 5.

2. Prepare Ingredients

While rice cooks, rinse Chinese broccoli. Trim and discard bottom 1 inch of stems, then cut broccoli crosswise into ¼-inch pieces, keeping stems and leaves separate. Rinse scallions, trim and discard roots, and thinly slice. Cut lime into 4 wedges for serving. Pat chicken dry with paper towel, and cut lengthwise into ½-inch strips. Season all over with spice mix, 1 teaspoon salt, and pepper as desired. Set aside.

3. Make Peanut Sauce

Place packets of peanut butter between your palms for 1-2 minutes—the heat from your hands will help it soften. Then, in a medium bowl, whisk together soy sauce, rice wine vinegar, sesame oil, and peanut butter until fully combined. Set aside until ready to serve.

4. Assemble and Cook Satay

Thread chicken evenly onto skewers, being sure to skewer the strips lengthwise, so they cook evenly. Heat 3 tablespoons canola oil in a large pan over medium-high heat. When oil is shimmering, add chicken satay in a single layer, working in batches and adding oil as needed. Cook, rotating occasionally, until chicken is charred, cooked through, and no longer pink, about 10 minutes total. Transfer satay to serving plates.

5. Sauté Chinese Broccoli

While chicken cooks, heat 1 tablespoon canola oil in a large high-sided pan over medium-high heat. When oil is shimmering, add Chinese broccoli stems and cook until beginning to soften, about 3 minutes. Then, add broccoli leaves and scallions and cook until beginning to wilt, about 3 minutes more. Season with ½ teaspoon salt. Remove pan from heat. Remove and discard ginger from cooked rice, then stir rice into pan with broccoli.

6. Plate Chicken Satay

Taste ginger rice and add more salt and pepper as desired, then divide among plates with chicken satay. Serve with lime wedges for squeezing over, and peanut sauce for dipping or drizzling. Dig in!
