Korean Steak Tacos

with Kimchi

Korean kimchi was invented sometime in the 7th century, long before refrigeration, as a way to preserve vegetables (most often cabbage) with salt. As chile peppers entered the Korean pantry, kimchi got hotter, eventually becoming the spicy-tangy pickle we know today. Here, it joins lettuce and bean sprouts as fresh taco garnishes, with tender steak that's been marinated in soy, sesame, and gochujang chile paste.

Ingredients

- 1 yellow onion
- 4 scallions
- ¼ cup gochujang
- 1 teaspoon agave
- 3 packets soy sauce
- 2 tablespoons sesame oil, divided
- 4 steaks
- 12 flour tortillas
- 4 ounces mung bean sprouts
- 2 limes
- 1 head butter lettuce
- 1 cup kimchi

You'll Need

large resealable plastic bag (optional) 12" large nonstick pan
aluminum foil

Recipe Tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking.

If you've got time to spare or are getting a head start on dinner, drop your steaks in the marinade and refrigerate up to 2 hours before you begin cooking. The extra time will infuse the steaks with even more flavor.

Cutting meat against the grain ensures tenderness. Find the direction of the grain (muscle fibers) and slice across it, rather than parallel.

USDA recommends cooking beef to 145°F.

1. Prepare Ingredients

Peel onion, halve, and slice as thinly as possible. Rinse remaining produce. Trim and discard scallion roots and thinly slice, keeping whites and light greens separate from dark greens.

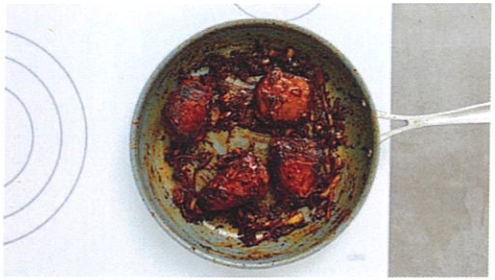

2. Marinate Steaks

In a large shallow bowl or resealable plastic bag, whisk together gochujang (skip or use half for less heat), agave, soy sauce, and half of sesame oil to combine. Pat steaks dry with paper towel and add to marinade, along with sliced onions. Turn everything to coat, then set aside to marinate at room temperature for at least 10 minutes (see Recipe Tip).

3. Toast Tortillas

While steaks marinate, heat a large nonstick pan over medium-high heat. Carefully hover your hand a few inches away from the pan—when you can easily feel heat, add tortillas in a single layer, working in batches as needed. Toast until warmed through, about 30 seconds per side. Stack tortillas and wrap in foil to keep warm until ready to serve.

4. Cook Steaks and Onions

Return pan from tortillas to medium-high heat. Add steaks and onions (along with any marinade) in a single layer, working in batches as needed. Sprinkle over scallion whites and light greens. Cook, moving steaks occasionally and stirring onions to avoid burning, until meat is browned on bottom, 4-6 minutes. Flip and brown on opposite side until medium rare, 3-4 minutes more. Transfer to a plate and set aside to let steaks rest, 5 minutes.

5. Season Bean Sprouts

While steaks rest, place bean sprouts in a medium bowl and toss with remaining sesame oil to coat. Quarter limes. Pat lettuce dry with paper towel and gently separate leaves, discarding tough stem.

6. Plate Korean Steak Tacos

Slice steaks against the grain as thinly as possible (see Recipe Tip). Layer tortillas with lettuce, sliced steak, onions, kimchi, bean sprouts, and scallion dark greens. Serve with lime wedges for squeezing over. Enjoy!
