Coconut-Lime Rice Pudding

with Pineapple

Arborio rice is an Italian short-grain variety that, when cooked, releases its starches to create a silky, creamy, but still delightfully chewy texture. You're probably used to seeing it in risotto, but this rice is just as ideal for sweet rice pudding. Here, coconut milk adds extra creaminess and nutty flavor, with balancing acidity from lime juice and fresh pineapple. Mint and toasted coconut flakes round out the tropical vibe.

Recipe tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking. Trust us—you'll be glad you did!

Coconut milk solids naturally separate from the liquids during transit. No worries; it will come together during cooking. Vigorously shake the can before opening, or pierce the solids with a spoon before pouring into the pan to avoid a messy splatter.

The skin of the lime (and other citrus fruits) is home to the highest concentration of aromatic oils, so chefs use zest to add bright, perfumy flavor and a little texture. It's easier and safer to zest the lime before cutting and juicing.

1. Cook rice pudding

Pour coconut milk into a medium pot (see recipe tip). Add rice, sugar, vanilla extract, 2⅓ cups water, and ¼ teaspoon salt, and bring to a boil over high heat. Reduce heat to medium and cook, stirring occasionally, until most of the liquid has been absorbed and rice is thickened and silky, 15–17 minutes.

2. Prepare ingredients

While rice cooks, rinse mint and roughly chop leaves, discarding stems. If you have a zester and want to infuse your rice pudding with even more lime flavor, rinse lime and zest up to ½ (see recipe tip), then halve. Cut pineapple into ¼-inch pieces, if needed.

3. Toast coconut and sesame seeds

Place black sesame seeds and coconut flakes in a medium pan over medium heat. Toast, stirring frequently to prevent burning, until golden and fragrant, 3–5 minutes. Transfer to a plate to cool slightly until ready to serve.

4. Finish rice pudding

Once rice is thickened, remove pot from heat and stir in juice of 1 lime and lime zest (if using) to combine.

5. Plate rice pudding

If you prefer to enjoy this treat cold, divide coconut-lime rice pudding among serving bowls, cover, and refrigerate for at least 2 hours. (Either way, we recommend rinsing the pot ASAP to make cleanup easier, since this sticky rice can be a tough scrub.) Top with sections of pineapple, toasted coconut and sesame seeds, and mint. Dig in!
