Creamy Rosemary Gnocchi

with Roasted Mushrooms and Squash

We already know that soft, pillowy gnocchi and golden brown butter go hand-in-hand, but pan-sear the potato dumplings and you'll add a crispy texture that makes this Italian dish even more irresistible. For a rich, silky sauce, we're adding creamy mascarpone, garlic, and rosemary, then pairing it with tender butternut squash and earthy roasted mushrooms for a fall-inspired vegetarian dinner.

Recipe tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking. Trust us—you'll be glad you did!

Let the gnocchi sear, without stirring, so they get slightly crisp on the outside and the butter can become golden brown and nutty.

Starchy gnocchi cooking water will give your sauce a perfect consistency and help it cling to the potato dumplings. Keep adding it until the sauce is silky—you might need more than you think.

1. Roast vegetables

Preheat oven to 425°F. Bring a large pot of water to a boil over high heat. Wipe mushrooms clean with a damp paper towel and quarter. Rinse remaining produce. Cut squash into ½-inch pieces, if needed. On a baking sheet, toss mushrooms and squash with 3 tablespoons olive oil, ½ teaspoon salt, and pepper as desired. Arrange in a single layer; roast until squash is tender and mushrooms are crisp, 17–20 minutes.

2. Boil gnocchi

While vegetables roast, use your hands to gently separate gnocchi over a clean, dry surface. Season pot of boiling water generously with salt. Add gnocchi and cook, stirring occasionally to prevent sticking, until just floating to the surface, about 2 minutes (they'll finish cooking in the next step). Reserve ½ cup gnocchi cooking water (a glass measuring cup is a great tool for this), then drain and set aside.

3. Sear gnocchi and prepare remaining ingredients

Once gnocchi are drained, heat butter and 1 tablespoon olive oil in a large pan over medium-high heat. When butter is foamy, add gnocchi and stir once to coat. Arrange in a single layer and sear, without stirring, until beginning to brown, about 3 minutes (see recipe tip). Meanwhile, strip rosemary leaves, discarding stems, then mince. Thinly slice chives. Thinly slice garlic.

4. Finish gnocchi

After 3 minutes searing, still over medium-high heat, stir gnocchi. Add rosemary and garlic to pan and cook until gnocchi is lightly browned on all sides, 3–5 minutes more. Remove pan from heat.

5. Make cream sauce

To pan with gnocchi, still off heat, add mascarpone and toss to fully coat. Adding 1 tablespoon at a time, stir in reserved gnocchi cooking water until sauce is silky and clings to gnocchi (see recipe tip). Once roasted, add half of mushrooms and squash to pan with gnocchi. Stir to combine. Season with ¾ teaspoon salt and pepper as desired.

6. Plate gnocchi

Divide creamy rosemary gnocchi among serving bowls. Top with remaining roasted mushrooms and squash, then garnish with Parmesan and chives. Dig in!
