Pan-Roasted Chicken

with Sweet Potato, Couscous, and Creamy Harissa Sauce

Israeli couscous, also called pearl couscous (or ptitim in Israel) is technically a pasta made of semolina wheat. We love tossing it with dressings, cheeses, and other mix-ins; here, call in a helper to stir in roasted sweet potatoes and shallots, then top with pan-roasted chicken breasts and drizzle over a creamy, spicy harissa sauce that you can easily tailor to suit your heat preference.

Plated.

Ingredients

- 2 sweet potatoes
- ¼ ounce parsley, divided
- ½ cup roasted red peppers
- 2 shallots
- 4 boneless chicken breasts
- 2 cups Israeli couscous
- 3 packets sour cream
- 1 packet harissa

You'll need

olive oil kosher salt
black pepper
8" medium pot with lid aluminum foil baking sheet
12" large high-sided pan

Recipe tips

Be sure to read through the entire recipe before you begin cooking.

Your roasted red peppers should already be sliced, but if you need to cut down any larger slices, you can do so here.

Though Israeli couscous is shaped like a grain, it's cooked like a pasta—the amount of water isn't indicated because you'll drain the couscous when it's finished cooking.

Harissa is mostly smoky, but subtly spicy. If you love heat, you can use more than we suggest; if you prefer a milder sauce, feel free to use less.

The chicken might have a slight odor as a natural reaction to its vacuum packing. USDA recommends cooking chicken to 165°F.

1. Prepare ingredients

Preheat oven to 450°F. Bring a medium, covered pot of water to a boil over high heat (this prevents the water from evaporating before you're ready to cook the couscous). Rinse all produce. Halve sweet potatoes lengthwise, then cut crosswise into ¼-inch half-moons. Mince parsley leaves and stems, keeping separate. Thinly slice roasted red peppers, if needed (see recipe tip). Peel shallots and thinly slice into rings.

2. Roast vegetables and season chicken

Line a baking sheet with foil, then add sweet potatoes, roasted red peppers, and shallots and toss with 1½ tablespoons olive oil, ¾ teaspoon salt, and black pepper (this is a great task for a helper). Arrange in a single layer; roast until tender and beginning to brown, 14–16 minutes. Meanwhile, pat chicken dry with paper towel; season all over with 1 teaspoon salt and black pepper as desired.

3. Cook chicken

Heat 1 tablespoon olive oil in a large high-sided pan over medium-high heat. When oil is shimmering, add chicken skin-side down. Sear, working in batches and adding oil in between as needed, until skin is golden and easily lifts from pan, 6 minutes. Flip and sear opposite side until cooked through and no longer pink, 6 minutes more. Transfer chicken to a plate and set aside to rest, reserving juices in pan, off heat, for Step 5.

4. Cook couscous and make sauce

While chicken cooks, stir couscous into pot with boiling water and cook until tender, about 8 minutes (see recipe tip). Drain and return to pot, off heat, then season with 1 teaspoon salt and black pepper. Meanwhile, in a small bowl, stir together sour cream, harissa (see recipe tip), 2 tablespoons water, 2 teaspoons olive oil, ¼ teaspoon salt, and black pepper. Set creamy harissa sauce aside for serving.

5. Finish couscous

Once couscous is cooked and drained, transfer to pan from chicken, still off heat, along with roasted vegetables and parsley stems (combining everything in the pan from the chicken incorporates the meat's flavorful pan drippings). Stir to combine (another great task for a helper), then divide among serving plates.

6. Plate pan-roasted chicken

Cut rested chicken into ¼-inch slices, then plate on top of roasted sweet potato couscous. Drizzle over creamy harissa sauce, garnish with parsley leaves, and enjoy!
